Murphy Oil thermal project mothballed

Seventy pump jacks stand idle this week behind the locked gates of the Murphy Oil Co. Ltd. Lindbergh thermal project, 35 km northeast of Elk Point, following Murphy's decision late last week to shut the plant down until crude oil prices rise to a level which would make operation once again economically feasible.

A press release issued Monday states that 'Murphy Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary, Alberta, regretfully announces that the company's Lindbergh thermal project has been temporarily shut in.

'The decision to suspend operations and thereby bring an end to the many jobs and spinoff services that supported the project was very difficult to make. However, the poor economics resulting from the depressed world oil prices demand that the action be taken.

'Although the present situation is rather gloomy, Murphy has not swerved from thinking that the heavy oil operations are an important part of the company's future.

'It is with this in mind that Murphy Oil has decided to patiently await the time when the enhanced recovery project at Lindbergh can be reopened, and can operate on a viably sound economic basis.

'Murphy Oil extends a most sincere thank you to all those people and support groups who participated in the operation, and to also wish them well in any future endeavors.'

Murphy's Lindbergh project employed 23 people, and in full operation, was producing 2600 barrels of crude per day. Continuing to operate this plant, with current oil prices, could have lost the company well over $1 million per year, and 'that would be an awful drain on the company,' Murphy spokesman Dennis Cameron said.

Monday's price for West Texas Crude was in the $13.55 range, but 'that's not what we get,' Cameron noted, adding that the local product is penalized because of its high viscosity and some sulfur content, both of which bring down its value.

SILENT IN THE AUTUMN SUN—the roar of trucks, the hum of machinery, the gentle seesawing of the pump jacks are all stilled, behind the locked gates (see inset at left) of Murphy Oil's Lindbergh Thermal Project, following last week's decision by Murphy's officials to mothball the operation until crude oil prices recover to a point which would make the operation viable once again.

Federal Election finally for November 21

By Joe Pavlin
St. Paul Journal

After months of speculation, Prime Minister Brian Mulroney called a general election on Saturday, to be held Monday, November 21. With less than seven weeks left in the campaign, candidates will be busy visiting their riding constituencies trying to win the confidence and support of voters.

For parties whose candidates (in some ridings) have yet to be determined, candidate nominations close on Monday, October 24.

Deputy Prime Minister Don Mazankowski held his candidate nomination meeting last night in his home riding of Vegreville. The results of the meeting were not available at press time. Incumbent Mazankowski swept the Vegreville constituency in the 1984 General Election, garnering over 32,000 votes while his closest competitor earned about 4,000 votes.

In the newly created riding of Beaver River, all three candidates: Progressive Conservative John Dahmer; Liberal Ernie Sehn and New Democrat Brian Luther, will spend the next few weeks trying to convince people to agree with their respective positions on the issues.

The prime election issue will likely be free trade.

The Progressive Conservatives won the 1984 Election taking 211 of the 282 seats.

Advance polls, for those unable to vote on November 21, are November 12, 14 and 15.

Cameron, who has been in charge of the operation since it opened four years ago, says that while he hates to see the plant put into mothballs for the duration of the price slump, 'It IS a business, and it has to be operated as such...that's the bottom line.'

However, the longtime oilman is looking forward to a more optimistic future: 'Better times ARE coming...I'm sure of it.'

Trip-a-month Club new Lioness project

Elk Point Lioness Club says tickets are going well on their latest project, a Trip-A-Month Club draw.

Only 300 tickets, at $100 apiece, are available for the year-long contest, in which one lucky ticket holder per month will win a trip for two to destinations ranging from Reno to Hawaii, while a second ticket holder will win $100 cash and a third, $50 cash, each month. All tickets, including those of winners, will remain eligible for the duration of the contest.

A minimum of 200 tickets must be sold before the first draw takes place on January 5, 1989, otherwise the Trip-A-Month Club will be dissolved and the money returned to those who have purchased tickets, unless an extension of the start-up date is requested.

The trips range in value from $678 to $1640, and in duration from 3 nights to 7 nights. They must be taken by January 31, 1990. Prize winners may take the specified trip, put the cash value toward a different trip, or take cash in lieu of the trip.

Destinations to be drawn for each month are: January-Ski Lake Tahoe; February-Waikiki, Hawaii; March-Reno; April-Vancouver and Victoria; May-Disneyland and San Diego; June-Quebec City and Montreal; July-Orlando, Florida; August-San Francisco; September-Phoenix; October-Palm Springs; November-Las Vegas; December-

Mazatlan, Mexico.

Funds raised with the Trip-A-Month Club will go to support the numerous community service projects the Lioness support annually, such as Buckle Up Baby, Block Parent, Santas Anonymous, Canada Day Parade, Information Night, and donations toward local recreation facilities, youth organizations, charitable organizations, public speaking contests, and hospital equipment.

FIRST PURCHASER-of a membership in the Elk Point Lioness Trip-A-Month Club was Russ Hebblethwaite, who is shown accepting his ticket from Lioness Holly Astill. What will it be, Russ, high country skiing or sun and sand??

Baptist Pastor begins new ministry with BGEA

By John McNabb

On September 26, 1988 Rev. John McGregor of the Elk Point Baptist Church concluded his pastoral ministry and has responded to God's calling to join the Canadian team of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. His farewell sermon was preached on the morning of Sunday, Sept. 18, which was followed by a pot-luck dinner and fellowship gathering in the church basement.

Pastor John ministered in the area for seven years and proved himself to be a wholehearted servant of God in various local and regional capacities. In the fall of 1981 McGregor began his ministry from Vermilion, where he and his family made their home until moving to Elk Point in 1982. Starting Sunday services with just a handful of people in the FCSS Building, the work steadily grew under his leadership to where it presently averages 80 to 100 regular adherents.

His ministry was highlighted by his official ordination as a Baptist pastor, various local crusades and the completion of a fine church building in Elk Point. However, his most lasting and luminous contribution to the area is with those who came to know and appreciate his gracious and exemplary character. It is the Church's earnest prayer that Pastor John will be given the desire of his heart and see people of all ages enjoying a genuine experience of the life-changing power of the Gospel which he preaches. The McGregor family will continue to live in Elk Point as his new ministry is undertaken.

A time to give Thanks

It is time to give thanks.

We are thankful for the autumn, with its blaze of glorious color once again a feast for our eyes, for autumn winds which dry the grain swaths and let the farmers reap the rewards of their season's work, for the bounty with which our gardens were blessed...

We are thankful for our community, with its countless volunteers who perform the tasks which enrich our lives, with its up-to-date amenities which serve our needs each day, with its multicultural roots which have contributed to its rich heritage...

We are thankful for our homes, however small or humble they may be, for they shelter our families from the elements, and give our lives a place to focus upon, a place of welcome rest when day is done...

We are thankful for our families, for they love us in spite of our all-too-human failings and imperfections, and are there when we need a word of hope or a hand to cling to...

We are thankful for our country, where there is freedom from war, from terrorism, from political coups, where there is freedom of choice to become educated, to pursue our faith, to have political beliefs, to write and to read what we wish...

We are truly blessed...let us give thanks.

Praise God, from whom all blessings flow!
Praise Him, all creatures here below!

Visit to a King's home

By Irene Magnusson

The interesting and historical spots in eastern Ontario and Quebec that we visited in September included a day's ramble around in the Gattineau Hills. This is a chiefly wooded, hilly area north of Ottawa, in the Province of Quebec, east of the city of Hull. It is also north of the Ottawa River, which forms the boundary between the two provinces there, and east of the Gattineau River, which runs down from the north, and joins the Ottawa in Hull.

Gattineau itself is composed of a number of townships, which joined for several reasons back in 1975, has a population of about 80,000 and is the 7th largest city in Quebec. And I had a hard time finding that out! Only my Canadian Encyclopedia would mention the place at all, and that only briefly. Not even the name shows in my Columbia Concise nor Britannica Dictionary (both of which list long-dead Italian composers, etc., and Gatling, inventor of the rapid-fire gun). Funk and Wagnall Encyclopedia give the river four lines.

I'm not sure the place deserves more credit for its activities, and mostly what I've heard about it is about the beauties of autumn in that area. This it would be futile to deny. The hills abound with maples and birch, sumac and many other colorful trees and shrubs, intermingled with evergreens. The combination, as they go into the fall color change, is awesome. This was in a beginning stage, when we visited. We were advised to 'just wait until next week!' or 'You've not seen anything yet!'

Of course, we couldn't wait, time is always limited, so we just went ahead and appreciated what we did see.

The tourist attractions of the Gattineau Hills include the home of our 10th Prime Minister of Canada, William Lyon Mackenzie King, who held that position for a total of 22 years. His home, built about 1910, back in the Gattineau Hills, is now a museum, and Tea Room, and the grounds around are open to the public for viewing. King was a bachelor, and of course, lived in the official residence in Ottawa while in office, so the house back in the woods was probably sufficient. We were a bit late for the Tea Room, so contented ourselves with the few rooms we were allowed to see. The entry, with a polished, high-backed bench (which I suspect had space inside it for rubbers) and some statuary, then a tiny room, with narrow window, a table and a very old-fashioned manual typewriter, wooden chair and cabinets. This was his secretary's office.

On the desk were copies of letters King had written, one started off (I didn't have time to read it all) to Hitler, praising his ability to solve the troubles in Europe... (certainly pre-war!)

We climbed narrow wooden stairs, to his bedroom, where a narrow lumpy bed, a very early model radio on the ornate dresser, a couple of wooden chairs comprised most of the furniture. We glanced into the kitchen, where the wiring was stapled to the walls, a definite after-addition, and bare bulbs with chains hung overhead.

The parlors, now the Tea Rooms, were closed, and perhaps were much more ornate. Wide verandas, freshly painted, and lovely with potted flowers and a few ornaments, ran along two sides of the house, and the rolling grounds were bright with flower beds.

We walked down the slope, to a raised round bed of lilies, some still blooming even that late, and here we saw the first of the 'ruins' King had a fancy for. These, the plaques told us, were taken from various old buildings which were to be demolished, and King acquired certain parts, such as entries, or windows, in one case—a wall—and had them moved to his property, either whole, or re-erected, and placed about his grounds. Some were in the process of being repaired, with props and such around, although we didn't see anyone actually at work.

I thought this a great idea, and quite enjoyed inspecting them. (The idea may take hold—perhaps I'll find some 'ruins' suitable for my yard...but who makes anything of bricks or stones around here???)

We walked down the quarter of a mile or so, to King's 'summer house,' a nice spot on the hillside above a small lake. Again, a small-roomed, crowded little house, a round table in the dining room set with one place, small pictures from the Group of Seven (copies) on the walls. King had purchased many of the real ones, and given them to the public, via museums, to enjoy.

Again, since we were so late, we didn't get to go into the 'guest house' located near by, or wander through the grounds much, although we saw the woods were lovely. One could easily see how this would be a restful and inspiring place, the giant oak trees, rock walls, the small, beautiful lake, and inviting green lawns all conspiring to please the mind.

Many pictures were taken, but I thought you might like to see the ruins—just a sample—and if you get a chance to see the place, by all means do so.

Back on the road, we followed around corners, up hill and down, past signs indicating golf courses, ski hills, lodges. We accused our driver of being lost (which he didn't deny) but eventually we came to his destination as planned—the now-famous Meech Lake.

We drove along the shore for a mile or so, noting a few very plush-looking summer homes hid back in the trees and up the slope. The road allowance is quite narrow, almost no place to pull off for picture taking, and no parking lot. We did get a couple of snaps, looks just like Muriel Lake, and could not see where they could have had a large gathering, as they must have had when they signed the Meech Lake Accord. Then, as we were leaving, on a high hill, above the treetops, a number of points showed. Of course, the castle minarets, suitable for VIPs, and probably reached by helicopter only.

Our curiosity assuaged, we headed back to Manotick, admiring the flaming colors against the deep blue sky, as the hills unfolded before us. Passing the unornate Eddy Match Factory, just before we crossed over the bridge from Hull, back into Ontario and Ottawa, I remembered my Mother worked in that drab-looking place for a time—way back when...

On another sun-filled day we plied the Rideau Canal in Denny's boat, a lively little 4-passenger acquired last spring. There is a ten-mile stretch, from the launch area and marina, down to Old Watson's Mill at Manotick. One could go on, by traversing the locks, but we tied up in a small park there, and enjoyed the picnic lunch Lynda had packed for us.

We saw several blue heron, lots of gulls, a few ducks. Large, ornate homes line the canal, most have boat docks, lovely lawns and trees. The canal is fenced with cable, and a paved walk follows the wall, a romantic place to stroll, I'm sure. (I would worry if I lived there and had small kids!)

Not to forget, it becomes a live-in skating rink in winter! Hard to believe, in those brilliant autumn days of September, that 3 or 4 feet of snow are not uncommon later on!

Special year for Ukrainian Dance Club

By Margaret Bayduza

This is a special year for the Elk Point and District Ukrainian Dance Club. The 1988-89 season is our tenth anniversary since the club started in September of 1979. We've come a long way and have a lot of well developed talent to show for it. As the quality of our dancers has improved, we have begun to get more recognition and more invitations to perform. We hope to have as many or more opportunities to dance this year as we had last year.

We will be having a bake sale on December 10 at the Pioneer Circle. We will be selling pyroghies only at this time. We will not be having private sales of pyroghies this year as we did last year. If you wish to buy pyroghies, you must purchase them at our sale.

We will be holding an adult beginners Ukrainian dance class this year, if there is enough interest. It would be held on Tuesday nights from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.. If you or anyone you know is interested, please phone Nellie at 724-2446 as soon as possible so the class can be organized and started.

BUSY AUXILIARY MEMBERS—By the October meeting, thoughts of Christmas will be stirring in minds. This display shows a few of the intricate and interesting articles produced by Auxiliary members in past years. What will they come up with next?

LEARN MORE ABOUT OUR ENVIRONMENT — GET THE FACTS

Albertans now have some of the world's best science to help in making decisions.

Five years ago, undertaking a major initiative, the Acid Deposition Research Program launched a $5.3 million study to determine whether acid rain is having an impact on Alberta's crops, soils and waters. This study is now complete.

The scientists concluded that regional scale impacts of acid rain in Alberta are not demonstrated today, and likely absent. They have, however, cautioned that greater industrialization will increase the risks associated with pollution in parts of the province they have identified as sensitive.

This research has been rated as one of the most comprehensive studies of air pollution in the world. The rating comes from an independent Science Advisory Board composed of air pollution specialists who oversaw and evaluated all aspects of the study for its scientific merit.

Today, as a result of this study, Albertans can have the satisfaction of having at our disposal a broader, sounder scientific base of knowledge, which will help us to determine the policies that govern our environment.

The Acid Deposition Research Program is funded by the Province of Alberta, the Canadian Petroleum Association, the Energy Resources Conservation Board and Alberta's generating electric utilities. Research was carried out by a university-private sector team of scientists led by the University of Calgary's Kananaskis Centre for Environmental Research.

Elk Point Hospital Auxiliary meets

By Irene Magnusson

The September 26 regular meeting of the Elk Point Hospital Auxiliary convened at 8:00 p.m. in the hospital meeting room, with twelve members present. Following the prayer and roll call, Chairman Gloria Lecopoy requested reading of the minutes by Agnes Moroziuk, secretary. Treasurer Bernie Kozicky gave the financial statement.

A request for the use of the new 'child' mannequin, purchased by the Auxiliary last year and used in life-saving training, was discussed and agreement reached to rent the doll to the NE Alberta Health Unit, when required for classes.

A report on activities in the Canteen was received, all being well, and the canteen open most weeks on three days. A list of articles purchased for resale was received.

Correspondence was dealt with, chief of which was information on the coming Annual Convention. This 40th Annual Hospital Auxiliaries Convention opens November 23rd, at the Convention Centre in Edmonton. Delegates are requested to volunteer by the October meeting, as registration ends October 31st. Any Auxiliary member may attend, two will have expenses paid.

A special publicity program will be prepared, commemorating the 40 years of Auxiliary services in the province, watch for posters and articles on this. Elk Point Auxiliary has not been active that long, but has certainly accomplished a great deal in the years since its beginning. Former Chairman Wasy Elashuk has agreed to compile a history update of Auxiliary achievements in Elk Point.

The North East Regional Auxiliaries Conference was held in Vilna on September 15th. Auxiliary members who attended were Diana Anderson, Wasy Elashuk, Bernie Kozicky, Adella Jennissen and Violet McFadyen. McFadyen gave the report.

Some 180 members attended the Conference, hearing reports and speakers. Quilt blocks made by auxiliaries, bearing the logos or names of many of the hospitals represented, were turned in. Someone will be hired to construct the quilt, and hopefully, it will be presented for viewing at the coming convention.

Members found the 'buzz sessions' of little use, McFadyen said, and few really new ideas came forth. Most Auxiliaries use the same fundraising ideas and methods, and with similar results.

A speaker on 'Tornadoes—Causes and Effects,' was the highlight of the conference, bringing many suggestions on how to deal with these and their after-effects. McFadyen gave a full report on this phenomena, from her notes. The next Regional Conference will be at Two Hills, in November, with reports expected from Mundare, Smoky Lake and Redwater.

A discussion on how to best give information of the Auxiliary's activities to the Hospital Board, as well as how to learn more of the Boards plans and needs followed. It was agreed communications could be improved, and suggestions followed, with perhaps an exchange of members visiting to offer reports as being the probable solution.

Thanksgiving tray favors were decided upon, with Christmas ideas requested for the coming October meeting.

WHAT'S NEWS at the Library

Lots of happenings at the Library this week. Friday's Storytime featured a puppet show, 'The Little Red Hen.' An enthusiastic group of 24 children were totally enraptured with the production. The star of the show, the little red hen, clucked busily, the dog barked vigorously, the cat meowed plaintively, and the little mouse squeaked merrily throughout the show.

The Library had several winners this week. Our book mark contest was a success. In the adult class, our winner was Shirley Osinchuk. The younger people were more fortunate in that there were three winners.
They are Jason Cabaj, Kristen Lindquist and Larissa Stone. Congratulations to all of you and thanks for entering. All winners will receive a brand new book. The bookmarks they designed are all on display in the library.

We also had another winner. Alisha Birkett was our patron who took out the 17,000 item this year. As you can see, the library is the place to come for your reading material.

Saturday, October 1, was the third anniversary of the library. A good crowd was on hand for the celebration. They came to view the artwork of Ralph Kryvenchuk, and the crafts done by Sharon Kuhn, Carol Hellquist and Darlene Sereda. A full report will be in next week's column.

NEW BOOKS

NON-FICTION--Detour: A Hollywood Story by Cheryl Crane--It was Hollywood's most shocking tragedy...the Good Friday 1958 slayings of screen goddess Lana Turner's mobster boyfriend, Johnny Stompanato, by Turner's fourteen-year-old daughter, Cheryl Crane. Cheryl tells us in this story how it happened and what led up to it.

FICTION--ADULT--First Born by Doris Mortman--The author weaves a rich, dramatic story of love, loss and ambition that traces the intertwined lives of four remarkable women who are linked by family and fate.

A word from Billy Graham...
"I think CAUGHT is by far the best evangelistic film World Wide Pictures has ever done. I believe that this film can have a profound effect on your community, on your church, and on each person who sees it."

Caught
From the Producers of THE HIDING PLACE, IONI, and THE PRODIGAL.

The Power of One Person Caring About Another.

"Opens October 15, 1988". Running through to October 18, feature times are

Weekend with the Super Dogs

One of Elk Point's Wonderdogs and her handler spent an unforgettable weekend this summer as part of the Superdogs troupe, performing at Edmonton's Klondike Days.

Kay Klopstock and her 5 year old Standard Poodle, Bonnie, had the honor of taking part in the event after a visit to the Superdogs' performance at Bonnyville Trade Fair by the Wonderdogs' handlers. Linda Piotrowski, one of the Wonderdogs' most avid promoters, spoke to the Superdogs' announcer/ringmaster, who invited the group to return the next day, with their dogs, to join in the performance. Only Ms. Piotrowski and Ms. Klopstock were able to do so, at such short notice, but they found it most exciting to work with the more experienced troupe. The Wonderdogs were subsequently invited to join the Superdogs at Klondike Days. This time only Ms. Klopstock could find time to attend.

'It was the thrill of a lifetime' to be treated as a part of this group, Ms. Klopstock said. She was supplied with a Superdogs uniform, and went to the meetings and practices with the regular members, who were 'so helpful. We went there to learn, and they had so much to teach us.' A number of suggestions regarding equipment and learning techniques received during the weekend were brought back to the Wonderdogs.

The high point of the weekend, Ms. Klopstock commented, came after the final show. The Grand Prix hurdles course had been left set up in the Coliseum for a number of members who wished to practice with their dogs. Bonnie had had difficulty with the course during the performances, and did again during the practice runs—until the final run-through, when, to Ms. Klopstock's joy, 'she did it perfectly! And you could tell, that she was just as pleased with herself as I was!'

Ms. Klopstock says that the Grand Prix course is 'harder for the handlers than for the dogs—we have to keep up with them!' The top member of the Superdogs, an eight year old German Shepherd, has been so well trained that he goes through much of the course by himself, which 'is what we all aspire to,' she noted.

The Wonderdogs have been keeping up with their practices all summer, 'Thanks to the Ag Society, who let us use the arena free of charge,' Ms. Klopstock said. However, now the ice will soon be put in, the canine cavorers will need a new practice area for the winter, and would welcome suggestions as to a new location. Special thanks also go to Arena caretaker

Don Woytkiw, who is a big Wonderdogs supporter and goodnaturedly 'puts up with all our junk.' The group has appreciated the support shown by the whole community, who show up in large numbers whenever the dogs perform.

The Wonderdogs are now working on new routines, including a game called 'flyball', which involves leaping a series of four small hurdles, then jumping on a pedal of a machine which pops a ball into the air. The dog catches the ball, and carries it back over the hurdles to the handler. 'The dogs love this,' Ms. Klopstock remarked, 'they even enjoy the obedience stuff—and they love the applause as much as we do.'

More information on the Wonderdogs can be obtained by calling the group's leader, Karen Reed, at 724-4245.

Students react to Ben Johnson story

Students in Mr. Sereda's class at Elk Point Elementary School were asked for their reaction to the story which broke out on Monday, September 26, regarding Olympic runner Ben Johnson. Here are some of their comments:

'I think that Ben Johnson didn't take the drugs but maybe someone put the drugs in his drinking water before he took the test. Or, I have different feelings, maybe he did take the drugs and that was why he didn't answer the reporters' questions. Or maybe he loves his country so much that he took the drugs to make sure that he won. It's just too bad if he took the drugs because we could have had a gold medal and a true world record.'

Derek Kalynchuk
Grade 6B

'I think it was dumb. He would have got a medal anyways. Now he can't be in the Olympics and he can't race for two or more years. It cost him five million dollars. It will also cost Canada a lot too.'

Monty Kenyon
Grade 6B

I feel a bit puzzled about why he took the drug. But I do know he took the drug by himself. I don't feel that someone made him. He used to be my hero. I'm happy for Carl Lewis because he deserved the medal.'

Travis Pankiw
Grade 6B

'Why? Why did he have to do such a thing? He knew he could win, so why? He's the fastest, he didn't have to! We had a gold. Now because of this we don't. We have one less medal. I thought he was good. All the athletes on TV are telling us not to use drugs, and then one of them goes and uses drugs. It just doesn't make sense!'

Golf tourney honors late Lynn McCormack

By Shirley Osinchuk

A few years ago, some of the Clandonald golfers hashed over the idea of holding a golf tournament for the community. One of those golfers was Lynn McCormack. Lynn died of cancer, but the idea was still alive. On Sunday, Sept. 25, the golf tournament happened, named by his friends, the 'Lynn McCormack Memorial Golf Tournament.' This will be an annual event, held where they all enjoyed golfing, at the Myrnam-Derwent Golf Course.

The weather was uncooperative, cold and raining, but none of the twenty-three golfers complained. All these were Clandonald area people, out to enjoy a family-community outing.

The steak supper was superb, with meat supplied by the Vermilion Cop's Jack. The cooks put the finishing touches to the steaks, and the ladies supplied salads, buns and desserts.

The following merchants made much appreciated donations: trophies from Dewberry Custom Cabinets, Frank's Shell, D & E DeFord Contracting and Ken's Service; clubhouse rent-Lakeland Glass; Clandonald Inn-$25; the Dewberry Merchants: Credit Union-playing cards and beer mugs; Dewberry Custom Cabinets-knives; Clandonald Merchants: Frank's Shell-key chains; Sparky's Oilfield Service-caps; Clandonald Hardware-concession and boobie prize; Ken's Service-pens and key chains. Vermilion merchants: TD Bank-golf caps; Treasury Branch-lapel pins and bags; Sutherland Insurance-matches; Northwestern Utilities-grippers; Alberta Power-grippers, bags and tees; Vermilion Standard-notepads; Herzog Motors-key chains; Vermilion Chrysler-pens; Parkview Service-pens; Midwest Auto-matches; Webb's-caps; Credit Union-jacket, toque, cap, tees, golf towels, rain gauge, key chains, golfer tools, and bags.

With the wonderful response in donations and prizes, there were goodie bags and prizes for everyone.

Many others contributed time and effort to supply the other necessities, like propane, phone calls, organizing, hotdogs, and someone was even given credit for the rain.
